Teaching English as a Global Language at Home or Abroad

Friday, November 22 2019

4:00 – 5:30 | ILC 125

What is teaching English to speakers of other languages like? What opportunities are there in the US and overseas? What preparation is useful, and what certification is required and offered at UA?

At this special event that coincides with UA Global Education Week, teachers from a variety of contexts will share their experiences -- including community ESL to refugees in American cities, intensive English to pre-freshmen at American universities, English overseas to both children and adults, and other contexts. We'll present what different kinds of preparation are useful, both for those looking for a short term experience and for those thinking of making TEGL a career.
