The Arizona Journal of Interdisciplinary Studies builds bridges between arts, social sciences, humanities, and science through showcasing undergraduate student interdisciplinary work. In keeping with the University of Arizona’s mission as a public research university, this student-led journal serves as a forum for innovative scholarship and research, and it is available both in print and online.

We are seeking creative, dedicated, and strong writers of ALL disciplines to add to our editorial team. Editors will be required to

- Review and edit approximately 3-4 article submissions for AZJIS from May through August 2016
- Have some working knowledge of the Chicago Manual of Style
- Maintain contact with the Editorial Board from May through August and be available to meet during that time if necessary

If you are interested in becoming an editor, please send an email to AZ.Journal.IS@gmail.com along with a 1-2 page writing excerpt. Include ‘AZJIS Editor’ in the subject line. The excerpt can be from any assignment or research paper. The last day to apply for consideration is September 14, 2015.

Editor Application Deadline: Monday, September 14, 2015

Application Instructions: Please email your excerpt to AZ.Journal.IS@gmail.com by Monday, September 14, 2014. Include ‘AZJIS Editor’ in the subject line.

Editors will be notified of acceptance in October and must attend an editorial meeting in November.

If you have any questions, please contact: AZ.Journal.IS@gmail.com